Movie opens with captions

By Mike Kaika

"The Big Chill," a Carson Production Group film distributed by Columbia Pictures, will make its Washington, D.C. premiere with captions at the Tenley Circle Theatre, 4200 Wisconsin Avenue, N.W. this Thursday, Sept. 29, at 8:00 p.m.

This marks the first time that a major American motion picture premiere has been captioned to include hearing impaired audiences. The first showing of the captioned version of "The Big Chill" was held on Tuesday, Sept. 20 in a benefit premiere at the Directors Guild Theatre in Hollywood, CA. Simultaneously, "The Big Chill," without captions, was shown at the Samuel Goldwyn Theatre at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Science.

The captioning of this motion picture was underwritten by Terrence J. O'Rourke, president of T.J. Publishers of Silver Spring, Maryland and El Paso, Texas. Mr. O'Rourke is a graduate of Gallaudet College and a strong advocate of accessible media for hearing impaired people.

In an effort to confirm that an audience does exist for first run captioned feature films, the captioned print of "The Big Chill" is being test screened in Washington, D.C. and New York City. It is hoped that this will set a precedent for additional captioned screenings of major commercial films. As ON THE GREEN went to press, there was a possibility that the Tenley Circle Theatre will show the captioned version for one week following the premiere showing.

"The Big Chill" is written and directed by Lawrence Kasdan who has had a hand in creating some of the most popular and successful screen entertainment in recent years. He has written or co-written scripts for "Raiders of the Lost Ark," "The Empire Strikes Back," "Continental Divide," "Return of the Jedi" and the powerful drama "Body Heat," which also marked his directorial debut.

"The Big Chill" is a story about former college housemates who have drifted apart over the years. Members of the baby-boom generation who entered young adulthood as idealistic non-conformists, they are now, for the most part, members of the establishment. The young men of the story have grown up to be a running-shoe store entrepreneur, a journalist for a popular magazine, a television star and a drug dealer. The women have become a doctor, a lawyer and the wife of a businessman.

Suddenly and unexpectedly, this group of old friends is reunited at the funeral of one of their own, who has committed suicide. He was a drop-out who, in their earlier years, had served as their collective conscience. Stunned by the loss, each comes to the reunion with a deep need to re-establish the bond of caring they once shared.

It is hoped that friends and members of the deaf community in the metropolitan area will show support of the project by attending the area's premiere showing of the captioned version at Tenley Circle Theatre this Thursday (Sept. 29) at 8:00 p.m.

NOTICE

Tickets for the opening night of "The Big Chill" may be purchased in advance at the Student Union Box Office in Ely Center on Sept. 26-28. Adults-$5.00 Senior Citizens-$4.00

Faculty flock to first meeting of the Fall

Dual degree program approved by faculty

On Sept. 19 attendance was SRO—standing room only—for the first faculty meeting of the 1983-84 academic year. A closed circuit television system carried the meeting's events to the overflow audience, as Catherine Ingold, chairman of the Collegiate Faculty and director of the Honors Program, opened the meeting and welcomed new faculty.

The meeting began with reports of the officers. Jerald Jordan reported on the preliminary statistics on the current student body. His figures show that there are presently 1,975 students on campus and "90% of the student body have a 90dB or greater loss and have had such since birth." Further information was presented on the administration of the Gallaudet Entrance Exam and testing statistics on this year's entering freshman and preparatory classes.

The major vote of the meeting was on a motion presented by Committee B—Undergraduate Curriculum. The proposal presented by Ed Krest, chair of the committee and assistant professor of Mathematics, was in support of a new dual degree program to be offered by Gallaudet and George Washington University. In this five year program a student would receive a BA in Physics from Gallaudet and a BS in Engineering from George Washington University. Students would have to satisfy the Gallaudet undergraduate degree program requirements as well as the 62-67 hours of required engineering courses at GWU. Krest pointed out that

Johns addresses opening faculty meeting

W. Lloyd Johns, who will begin his presidency of Gallaudet College on Oct. 1, addressed the faculty as part of its first meeting of the academic year.

"I see myself as a faculty member foremost," he said. In his opening remarks Johns identified himself as a long-time educator and said that the concerns expressed today regarding entrance standards and quality of programs reminded him of when he was a faculty member on the opposite side of the country and in a different time in our history—the 1960s. At that time he attended meetings where the same concerns were expressed while the college campuses were going through so many social and political changes.

Johns's presentation centered on his 4-R program, which he said he began a year ago when he first heard of the opening for president of Gallaudet College. His first step was "to review where the program is now." During this time of review Johns said that he developed a renewed respect for the College and its programs. "You—and now I like to say we—at Gallaudet really are respected from coast to coast."

After review, the second R in Johns's program is restructuring. Referring to "comments in On The Green—some of which I actually said"—regarding a different management style, he reported that the core of his new management team will be moving into the Edward Miner Gallaudet building in October. The restructuring, Johns explained, will follow a pattern of "putting our resources into quality education, research—and by that I mean more than strictly educational research—and carrying forward the public service programs in a more dramatic way in the coming decade."

W. Lloyd Johns spoke at the year's first faculty meeting.

The third step, reallocation, is "taking those resources we need and moving them for one place to another." Johns sees this as a necessary step because, as he put it, "there is no doubt that we won't get much new money." He admitted that reallocation will be tough but felt that it could be done in such a way as to use quality

Library Bits & Pieces

by Jane Rutherford

SIRE/G (SIRE for short) is the Gallaudet College Library's computerized catalog of information in the following areas:

- Deaf Collection materials
- College periodical (magazine) holdings
- Recent library acquisitions
- Linguistics Research Lab materials
- Curriculum Lab materials
- Videotape collection
- Audiovisuals related to deafness (not necessarily in the Library's collection)
- Names and addresses of sources for those audiovisuals

SIRE is an acronym for the Syracuse Information Retrieval Experiment which was developed at Syracuse University. It has been in use at Gallaudet College since early 1980 after extensive modification of the original system.

A terminal near the Information Desk in the Library is logged in to the SIRE system during Library hours. This terminal is available for anyone who wants to use SIRE to search one of the databases currently maintained. Using one of those databases, SIRE allows the user to do a Boolean search and find the information needed to locate various materials. Until recently, when the search was done, the information had to be listed on the screen of the terminal and hand-copied by the user. The Library policy has been revised to allow users to request that listings of up to 100 documents be printed on the line-printer in Computer Services.

Here is the procedure you would use to get a printed listing. First, you should do your search. Then, to get it printed, give the NAME command with your name followed by the TP command with the range of documents to be printed. An example of such a search session follows:

? BO COMPUTERS AND EDUCATION

COMPUTER 44

EDUCAT 4997

You have retrieved 26 documents

? NAME J. Doe

? TP 1-26

When you have finished using SIRE, you just get up and leave the terminal with the "?" prompt for the next person to use.

Printouts will be ready by the next morning (except for Saturday searches which will not be available until Monday morning), one hour after the Library opens. They will be kept behind the Information Desk; ask the person working there to get it for you. Try to pick up your printout within a week of your search or it will be discarded.

The Library hopes that you will find this new feature of SIRE helpful. If you have any questions about the printing option of SIRE or about SIRE in general, please talk to a reference librarian.

Ed Krest, assistant professor of Mathematics, explains the details of Gallaudet's new dual degree program. Catherine Ingold, chair of the faculty looks on.

Degree program begins

there are three students who are now taking Consortium courses who are potential candidates for such a dual program.

Following a discussion period, Ingold called for the vote. The program passed with no visible opposition. This program, which will not require any additional faculty or financial resources from the College, will go into effect immediately and will become a part of the catalogue of academic offerings of the College.

The new business part of the meeting's agenda contained two proposals which were immediately assigned to committees for further study. The Committee on Preparatory Studies was asked to review the criteria on admission to the undergraduate program following completion of the preparatory program. Committee A, which analyses issues of faculty welfare, will be reviewing the second proposal on proficiency in simultaneous communication requirements for new faculty. This is a review of a policy which was established last year.

The next faculty meeting is scheduled for October. Faculty members will be notified of the agenda, time and date via Campus Mail.

Reed speaks at campaign meeting

On Sept. 22, Vincent Reed, vice president for Communications with the Washington Post, spoke at a breakfast meeting launching the second Gallaudet Washington Metropolitan Area Annual Business Campaign. Reed and 11 other volunteers from the area's business community will work as a committee to raise funds for Gallaudet College. The campaign had already received $50,000 in gifts and pledges toward its goal of $225,000 by January 31, 1984.

During the campaign the committee will be asking businesses for their financial support to aid the College in maintaining its excellence in education, research and public service programs. "Few communities are as lucky as Washington, D.C. to have access to the most up-to-date programs and services for hearing impaired people and their families," Reed told the breakfast group. Gallaudet's programs include services for local families and deaf people of all ages. Examples of services available to the metropolitan area population are the early diagnosis of infant hearing loss, the KDES parent education program and the counseling and Elderhostel programs available for older citizens who are adjusting to hearing loss at a later stage in life.

Reed said, "I felt very positive about last year's campaign. It was the College's first effort in this kind of fund raising. Our success last year makes this year's campaign more of a challenge." Last year the campaign raised over $180,000 which was designated for the renovation of the Northwest Campus, which opened this fall with the expanded preparatory student program.

Also serving with Reed on the campaign will be: Avery C. Faulkner, president of Faulkner Design, Inc.; Stephen D. Harlan, managing partner with Peat,

Education research

The Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education (FIPSE) of the U.S. Department of Education has announced November 1, 1983 as the FY 1984 deadline for grant applications to the Mina Shaughnessy Scholars Program.

FIPSE will award grants to postsecondary institutions and private educational organizations to support projects by educational practitioners that produce a document or other product or engage in activities designed to disseminate information.

The Education Department has allocated $350,000 in FY 1984 for these projects, which will support approximately 15 new projects. The Department is not establishing priority areas for this competition, so applicants in all appropriate areas will be accepted.

Applications will be evaluated by the following criteria: a) the extent to which the project will address an important need or improve services, b) feasibility of the project, including the adequacy of the applications personnel, facilities and financial resources, and d) appropriateness.

For further information, please contact the Office of Sponsored Research. Application forms can be obtained from the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education, U.S. Department of Education, Room 3100, 7th and D Streets, SW, Washington, DC 20202, Attention: CFDA 84.116E. Contact FIPSE at 245-8091 or 245-8100.

WFD 1983 Congress summarized

by Merv Garretson

Many members of Gallaudet College's faculty and staff were present as registration for the IX Congress of the World Federation of the Deaf began on June 28 at the University of Palermo on the Italian island of Sicily. Members of the WFD Bureau (Board of Directors) met all day at the headquarters hotel in the heart of the city of Palermo.

Business meetings of the General Assembly were conducted on Wednesday and Thursday with 38 countries out of 70 sending in official voting delegates. The World Federation of the Deaf is an international organization made up of the national associations of the deaf of each of those 70 cooperating nations. Each country is permitted two delegates. Representing the United States were Yarker Andersson, then first vice president of the WFD and Alan Hurwitz, president of the NAD in the USA. Andersson is a sociology professor at Gallaudet and Hurwitz is associate dean at NTID in Rochester.

As previously reported in On The Green, Andersson was elected president of the WFD during the final business session. He won a second ballot decision over Vasil Panev of Bulgaria and Pathe Samb of Senegal, both of whom were later elected to the Bureau. Other members of the board, who will serve through the 1987 Congress at Finland are Secretary-general Cesare Magarotto, Italy; Drago Vukotic (out-going president), Yugoslavia; P. Nudny, India; V. Fufaev, Russia; Milada Smutna, Czechoslovakia; Teodor Manzanedo, Argentina; Liisa Kauppinen, Finland, and Murray Holmes, Scotland.

The formal opening of the scientific sessions was held July 1 at the Politeama theatre in the city-centre. Flags of member nations formed a colorful backdrop along the rear of the stage. The Italian national anthem was sung, and for the first time in history, also rendered in Italian signs. An array of some eight different foreign sign language interpreters also occupied the stage. It was estimated over 2,000 people participated in this ninth World Congress.

During the week papers were read at six scientific commissions: medicine and audiology; pedagogy and psychology; social and vocational rehabilitation; communication; arts and culture and spiritual help. Gil Delgado of Gallaudet moderated a panel on the needs of deaf people in developing nations; Dr. Merrill presided at meetings of the commission on pedagogy and psychology, assisted by Merv Garretson, vice president for pedagogy, Lars von der Lieth, of Denmark, vice president for psychology, and Dr. Riva from the Italian committee.

National citizens forum scheduled

A series of four forums co-sponsored by the Consortium of Universities of the Washington Metropolitan area and the Domestic Policy Association (DPA) will give area residents an opportunity to discuss issues of national importance such as nuclear arms, local and national educational priorities and the federal budget.

As a member of the Consortium, Gallaudet College is involved in the planning and program of the forum. Roslyn Rosen, dean of Continuing Education is serving as co-chairperson for the forums along with Wilt Corkern, assistant to the director of the Consortium of Universities.

Hilda Mason, chair of the Education Committee of the District of Columbia City Council, will be the keynote speaker at the Oct. 22 session on "Priorities for the Nation's Schools on the Local Level." On that day the public is invited to a Saturday morning panel and audience discussion at the University of the District of Columbia.

On Nov. 5 at Catholic University, Rene Poussaint, co-anchor on WJLA-TV evening news, will be moderator for a panel discussion on "Nuclear Arms and National Security." Todd Krock of the office of Programs in Adult and Community Education says that they expect Paul Warnke, Rev. Francis X. Winters and Jeremy Stone to also appear on the panel.

The National Issues Forums in Washington, D.C. will be the second such series organized by the DPA. The Domestic Policy Association is a non-partisan citizen based group interested in using local institutions and organizations as part of a voluntary network working for improved public education on national policy issues. A part of DPA's goal is to assess public opinion "beyond the voting booth." Each participant in the forum receives a questionnaire to be filled out before the discussion. This becomes a record of initial opinions about the issues to be discussed. Following the session the participants are given another questionnaire. This is a record of how, if at all, the individual's opinions were altered by the exchange of views on the issues and the choices for resolution presented by the panel and other members of the audience. In March, 1984 the results of these questionnaires will become part of a DPA sponsored Citizen/Policymaker Conference at the Lyndon B. Johnson Library and Museum in Austin, Texas. At this time national policy makers will learn about the results of this and other community forums. This program is a way for individual citizens to meet and debate and come to a common understanding of national issues and then make their opinions known to the people who are charged with making national policy.

The final two forums of this series will be Nov. 12 on "Priorities for the Nation's Schools" and Nov. 19 on "The Deficit and the Federal Budget." The speakers and panel members for these sessions are yet to be announced.

Participants are requested to pay a $3.00 registration fee for each of the four forums. Registrants will receive a 35 page booklet outlining the issue and the various options to be presented during that day's discussion.

For more information on the forums please contact Roslyn Rosen, x5599 or Todd Krock x5597.

tative decision making as opposed to across-the-board cuts. The goal is "to keep the programs strong that fit in with the mission and goals of the College."

The final R is the renewal of commitment. "Once the new structure has been determined then people will rally round" to insure that all are moving in the same direction. "As Pete Merrill says, Gallaudet does have a rich legacy and a promise. We all have our work to do to keep that up."

Johns closed by saying that as a College, Gallaudet should not be content with an endowment of less than $25 million. And raising that "is my job." With the recent publication of so many critiques of American education, the leveling off of federal resources and the competition for private funding Johns warned the faculty, "I have to tell you that it is going to be hard."

Johns reminded his audience that "it is the educational program that is important. The students come here because of you not me."

Graduate gains trail experience

Paul Hughes, a 1982 graduate of Gallaudet College with a major in physics, recently gave up his attempt to be the first deaf person to walk across the United States from Washington, D.C. to California. Hughes stopped his walk in Tuscaloosa, AL. when people started throwing objects at him from passing vehicles.

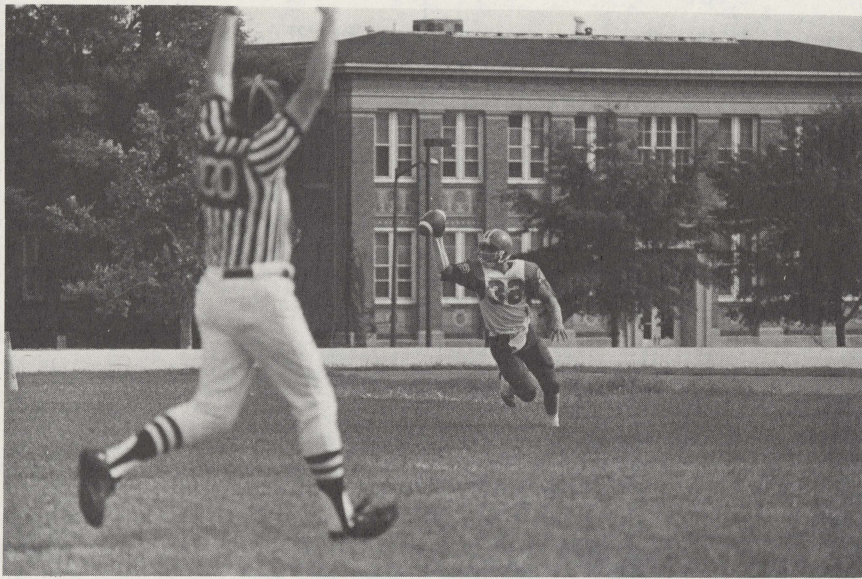

"I couldn't believe that people could be so horrible and cruel," said Hughes. "They threw bottles and cans at me but luckily I didn't get hurt." He reported the incidents to the police but there was little that they could do to help him.

Hughes had begun his walk on May 9 and had completed 86 days and 1,429 miles before he stopped. The majority of the first 74 days from Washington, D.C. to Harper's Ferry, W.VA. and on to Marietta, GA, was walked along the Appalachian Trail. "Even though I had to go up and down mountains, I made good time in reaching Georgia," wrote Paul, "and I really looked forward to the rest of my trip."

This was Hughes' third challenging trip across the country. In May, 1981 he rode a 15 speed bike from Gallaudet to the California border in 17 days, averaging 130 miles a day. In August, 1981 he drove a motorcycle from Whittier, CA. back to Gallaudet College in 10 days.

Hughes said in a recent letter that although he was angered by the incidents in Alabama he will not give up outdoor life. He said that he is considering a hiking trip along the west coast from California to Washington state.

Touchdown! Linebacker Tosselli Silvestri scooped up a Severn fumble and raced 21 yards for MSSD's first touchdown of the game.

Eagles win two games

MSSD won a cliff hanger against Severn on Friday, Sept. 16 by a score of 20 to 18. The Eagles were behind 18-6 going into the fourth quarter but Sean Markel cut the deficit to 18-12 on a three yard TD run.

Severn threatened to put the game out of reach in the closing minutes of the game but the MSSD defense stopped them at the nine yard line with 54 seconds left in the game. The Eagles offense, led by the passing of quarterback Ray Brooks, marched to their eight yard line on four passes. On the last play of the game with no time remaining on the clock Brooks threw an eight yard TD pass to Pat Crooks. Sean Markel ran the conversion for two points and the game.

In the opening game of the season on Sept. 10, MSSD had a field day while clobbering Riverdale Baptist, 58 to 8. The next home game for MSSD will be Friday, Sept. 30 against St. Pauls beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Bison soccer team off to flying start

The Gallaudet soccer team started the season on a good note by winning the Washington Bible Invitation Tournament. Bison booters defeated Lancaster 8 to 0 and in the championship game Gallaudet defeated Washington Bible 1 to 0 on a penalty kick in overtime.

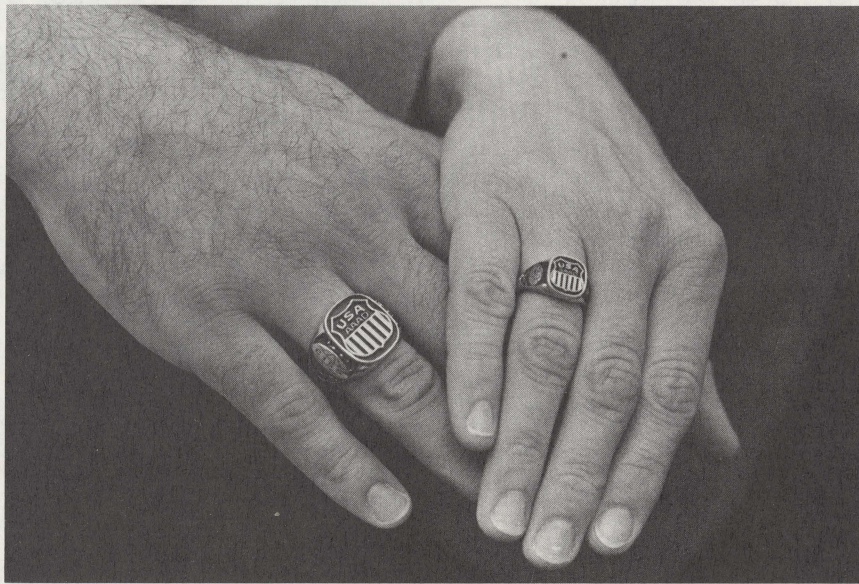

In the next outing, also against Washington Bible, the Bisons won easily, 4 to 1, to up the record to three wins and no losses. Head coach Marty Minter has a talented and experienced team this year. The soccer team is gunning for its eighth consecutive winning season. The way this team has been playing it should accomplish this feat with little difficulty. Since 1976, the soccer team has posted a cumulative won-lost-tie record of 47-35-4.

Faculty/staff bowling begins in October

The Gallaudet Faculty-Staff bowling league will begin play on Wednesday, Oct. 12 at 4:30 p.m. in Ely Center. A brief organizational meeting will be held prior to the afternoon's bowling.

This is a mixed league and all faculty and staff are encouraged to join.

For more information about the bowling league contact Dave Stahle, recreation coordinator, in the Ely Center.

The U.S. Committee for the World Games for the Deaf has chosen this ring design for the Art Kruger Gold Ring Award.

Tom Berg honored at WGD luncheon

At a luncheon on Sept. 19, Tom Berg, coordinator of Gallaudet's Physical Education and Athletic Facilities and manager of the sports information office, was honored as the first recipient of the Art Kruger Gold Ring Award. The award was established this year by the U.S. Committee for the World Games for the Deaf (WGD) to honor a man or woman for outstanding contributions to the goals and purposes of the USA-WGD.

Berg has a long history of involvement with the WGD. He has attended each summer games in an official capacity since 1957 when he was head coach and an competing athlete at the games in Milan, Italy.

The award was named for Art Kruger, Gallaudet '33, one of the founders of the American Athletic Association of the Deaf in 1945. Kruger served as chairman of the U.S. Committee of the WGD from 1957-81.

The honor was awarded during a meeting of the U.S. Committee on the campus of Gallaudet College. The Committee met from Sept. 18-20 for a planning session for the next Games which will be held in Los Angeles, CA, July 10-20, 1985.

Luncheon is served

Ladies and Gentlemen, luncheon is served.

The Ole Jim will be open for lunch beginning Oct. 3 from 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. The menu presented by ARA food services will be similar to last year's salads and sandwiches with occasional special entrees.

Reservations are not necessary. Call a friend and meet for lunch in one of Gallaudet's finest historic buildings—the Ole Jim. Put a part of yesterday in your today.
